

Increase In SJC Tuition Forecast for 1971

By JAMES AHR

Tuition at Saint Joseph's will be going up for the 1970-71 school year, according to college administrators.

"There's no other way to meet expenses," says Fr. William Eilerman, C.P.P.S., college vice-president for business affairs.

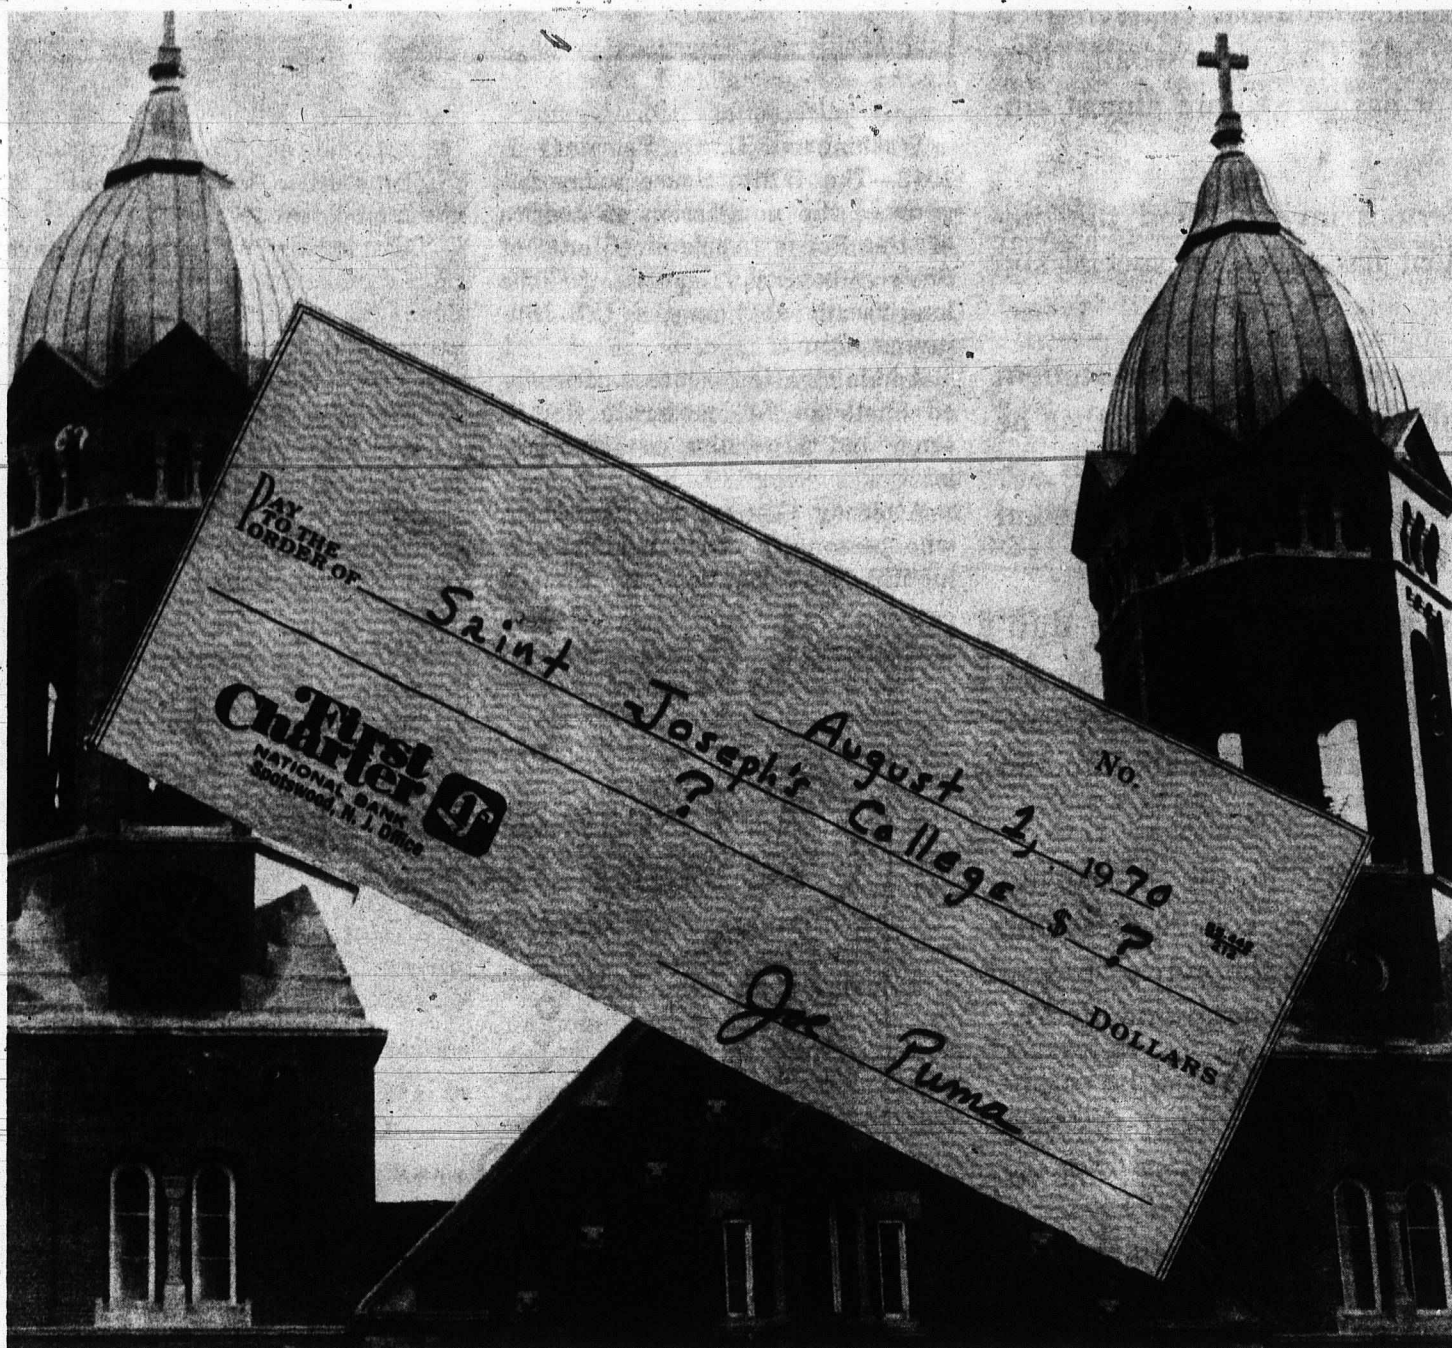

He predicts that the college is presently running towards a deficit which may reach $150,000 this year. The general inflationary state of the economy and the expenses which the college has incurred in improving maintenance and boiler conditions were given as the main causes of the deficit.

"Our costs will still be median among colleges across the country," maintains Fr. Charles Banet, C.P.P.S., president.

"The college's physical plant has been allowed to deteriorate over the years and now we're taking steps to correct this," he says. "And it's going to cost quite a bit."

Major items in this area are the proposed new boiler and new water treatment plant, in addition to renovation of dormitories.

Increases in the salaries of both teaching and non-teaching personnel are contributing to the deficit but are necessary expenses if Saint Joseph's is to attract qualified personnel.

The checkbook is fast replacing the Twin Towers as the college's trademark. Tuition at Saint Joseph's faces an increase for the 1970-71 school year, the fourth such rise in four years. Exact amount of the raise will be known in late spring when school budgets have been analyzed and next year's expenses predicted.

This year will mark the second time in its history in which the college has operated at a deficit. The deficit last year was $1600, the total arrived at after $100,000 was pared from the original budget.

Tuition was raised from $675 per semester to $725 per semester to compensate for that deficit, a $100 total increase over the year before. Tuition figures have been raised every year for the past four years here.

Although admitting that "things look worse now than they did last year at this time," Eilerman says "the college still has a sound financial base to work from."

The tuition increase is preferred over other alternatives of obtaining funds, according to Banet.

"This situation could be met by selling securities, land or other properties which the college holds," he explained, "but that would seriously damage our financial condition in years to come. We would lose the income from these sources permanently and reduce our overall holdings."

Exact amount of the increase will not be known until late spring, pending review of budgets for the 1970-71 school year and a closer look at this year's expenses.

Senate Recommends On Snow Fight Complaints

by STEVE SCHRADER

Recommendations for disciplinary action concerning Sunday night's snowball fight involving 200-300 students were made by the Student Senate Tuesday night at the request of the President's Administrative Council.

The meeting also marked the inauguration of the first Senate President, Al Scappaticci (Jr.-E. Sei.), who was elected by the Senate Tuesday night.

After lengthy and often-heated debate, the Senate voted for the payment of all damages done Sunday night to be made by the SA, for letters of apology to be sent to persons victimized by the incident and to local police officers, a letter of reprimand to be posted on all bulletin boards, and the prosecution through normal disciplinary procedure of those students identified in the incident.

These recommendations were sent to Father Emil Labbe, C.P.P.S., vice-president of student affairs, who called the incident a "classic example of mob behavior," reported to the Senate a list of incidents occurring Sunday, and requested their recommendations.

In a letter to the Senate, Labbe complained that "when the students openly and physically attack authority, and even more so those who are working for them, it seems that something has gone wrong with the educational system." The "attack" upon "those who are working" for the students refers to the pelting with snowballs of the campus security force, Mrs. Dunn, several resident assistants, and Labbe.

Labbe informed the Senate that no social functions will be approved by his office until he decides on disciplinary action for Sunday's incidents and that his decision would not be made until the Senate responded to his letter.

Among the criticisms leveled at the administration Tuesday night was Tony Gribi's (Jr.-W. Sei.) charge that the administration should not complain about immaturity of the students after demonstrating its own lack of responsibility for living conditions on campus.

Also, SA Treasurer Chuck Carrico took Labbe to task for not appearing at Tuesday's meeting to assist the Senate in their decision. "The administration," said Carrico, "has outdone the students this time by fighting immaturity with immaturity."

Other Senators questioned Labbe's claim about the "attack" upon authority, and maintained the element of intentional violence and destruction which Labbe presumes simply was not present Sunday night among the vast majority of students involved.

The recommendation for payment of damages, letters of apology and letter of reprimand came from a motion by Jack Wiese (Sr.-Whs, Pwr. Schrf.). The Senate's suggestion to punish identity

Robinson Hired To Counseling Staff

Recent Saint Joseph's graduate Ron "Satch" Robinson has been hired by the college as assistant to the director of counseling and guidance. He is the first black man to fill such a position on the administrative staff.

Robinson helps the admissions directors recruit students from all-black high schools. "I can communicate well with these students by visiting with them in their homes," he says.

While Robinson was a psychology major here he became concerned about the validity of aptitude tests, especially in relation to black students.

"The college entrance exams, S.A.T. and A.C.T., are oriented toward the white, middle-class student," he claims. If the culture-directedness of these tests could be reduced, black students, on the average, would score considerably better, he feels.

According to Robinson, the raising of the Predictive Index requirement by the "Calculated Risk Program" will impede the admission of black students.

"The 1.8 PI. will hurt greatly. I would like to see the college develop and use its own admission test, as other schools have done," says Robinson.

His title is evidently unimportant to him. "Don't call me Mr. Robinson," he says. "I want to erase any 'ivory tower' image of administrative aloofness." The new counselor's office is a converted classroom with a plain door, room 222 in the administration building. "Satch" says he will usually be available there from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays.

He believes that as a counsellor he can be especially helpful to black students having identity problems. "Blacks have trouble relating to white profs and department counsellors. I can understand these students and give them the individual attention and respect they need," says Robinson.

His advice to black students is: "We have to realize that we need education, no matter what type of situation we are going to be entering into. As Nina Simone says, 'To be young, beautiful and black is where it's at.'"

Marine Officer Selection Team In Halleck Center Tomorrow

Representatives of the U.S. Marine Corps Officer Selection Team will be on campus tomorrow from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Halleck Center, explaining details of the Marines' Platoon Leaders Class Program.

By enrolling in this program, a student can be commissioned as a second lieutenant in the Marines upon graduation from college. Unlike the Reserve Officer Training Program, participants in this program do not attend classes in military science while in school. They attend summer camp for either one ten-week period or two six-week periods during their college years.

After graduation, participants serve three years in the Marine Corps. Starting pay is $368.40 a month, with added allowances if the individual is married or does not live on a military base. No reserve-type meetings are required after the three-year tour of duty.

ISI Meets Thursday

Saint Joseph's chapter of the Intercollegiate Studies Institute (ISI) will sponsor a meeting next Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Halleck Center Conference Room in cooperation with the Monthly Discussion Group of the Friends of the Rensselaer Public Library.

"Solutions for Current Social Problems" will be discussed by Thom Wagner and Hilary Evers. A discussion period will follow their presentation.

The meeting is open to the public and is free of charge.

Great Snowball Fight

When compared to the turmoil which has characterized many major universities recently, the Great Snowball Fight of Sunday night and the "crisis" it has caused are almost embarrassing.

However, because of the persons involved and the present campus situation, the incident has taken on special significance.

Father Emil Labbe, C.P.P.S., vice-president for student affairs, sees Sunday night as a shattering of illusions that he held concerning the maturity of this student body. It was upon this maturity that he has based his advocacy of a liberal campus drinking policy.

Because of the "mob behavior" involved and the difficulty of meting out justice to 200-300 students without unfairly punishing an entire student body, the President's Council directed Labbe to seek recommendations from the Student Senate.

This in itself shows more maturity in the President's Council than Father Charles Banet, C.P.P.S., college president, exhibited three years ago by reprimanding the entire student body for similar behavior with letters to mommy and daddy.

The appeal to the Senate 1) has shown that Labbe can be as immature as many students and 2) has provided the Senate with an opportunity to prove its own maturity and responsibility.

At a time when the Senate could have used Labbe's counsel, Labbe's emotional attitude toward the students—his description of which we are not allowed to print—prevented him from attending Tuesday's Senate meeting.

While considering their recommendation, the Senate could have used such valuable information as the estimated cost of damages and the number of students actually identified Sunday night—information which Labbe could have provided if he would have attended the meeting instead of pouting in a corner.

However, the Senate performed remarkably well under the circumstances. Although not possessing complete information, they were pressured into making a recommendation—any kind of recommendation—since Labbe said no social activities would be cleared through his office until the Senate responded to the request of the President's Council.

The recommendations of the Senate—payment by the SA for all damages, letters of apology from the SA, a public letter of reprimand to the students, and the prosecution of identified students—show cool, calm deliberation, especially when one considers that the Senators are not paid administrators or disciplinarians, but simply students under pressure.—S. T. S.

Good P. R.

News of next year's all-but-inevitable increase in tuition brings reactions of varied types. Veterans of previous raises may view it with weariness and resignation.

Others may protest that decrepit dorms and other facilities are poor exchange for $2500 or more a year. And others might conclude that Saint Joseph's is simply pricing itself out of the market.

Nevertheless, the economics of running Saint Joseph's can't be denied: an increase in tuition is unavoidable. A lot could be done, though, to soften the blow.

A thorough accounting of the college's financial state seems necessary if the college is to remain in good faith with its supporters.

Good public relations—perhaps a lost art around here—would seem to dictate that a bitter pill could be more easily swallowed if the entire facts of the college's financial standing were known.

True, this is a modest proposal. But one which nonetheless deserves consideration from the appropriate authorities. If the college is prepared to hike its prices, it should be equally prepared to present all the facts for this to the people involved.—J. A.

Nixon Finds Southern Justice

By Art Hoppe

Washington, D. C., February 7, 1972—The White House today announced the nomination of Justice of the Peace Appleton Shote of Soowee county, Georgia, to the long-vacant seat on the U.S. Supreme Court.

Administration sources described Shote as "a moderate Southerner and a genuine constructionist."

Attorney General John Mitchell, who personally conducted the six-months investigation of Shote's background, said he was confident of "speedy Senate approval" of the nomination.

"My exhaustive inquiries have not disclosed one shred of evidence that Mr. Shote has ever accepted a consultant's fee, owned stock, suffered a conflict of interest, made a racist speech, or owned a segregated golf course," Mitchell said. "I'm glad the three-year search is over."

The nomination was hailed by Shote's friends and neighbors in Soowee county. "It's the best thing that ever happened to Soowee county," said one, "if'n it means that shiftless skunk'll be moving to Washington."

News of the nomination was broken to Shote by reporters, who found him on the banks of the Sowbelly river, sipping White Lightning from a Mason jar.

At first, Shote expressed some hesitation on accepting the nomination to the Nation's highest court. "What's this here job pay," he inquired, "and what are the hours?"

On being told, Shote said he reckoned he'd take it—"leastwise till I start drawing my Social Security come next January."

A reporter asked Shote if he considered himself "a genuine constructionist."

"Well, now," he replied, "I did help Mrs. Purdy up Twin Forks way shore up her privy after the big storm in '32, but I ain't done much in that line since."

Another inquired about Shote's views on the Constitution. "My liver's right fine and the ticker's beating like a $50 watch," said Shote, "and though I've been a mite gassey in the belly lately, t'aint worth paying no never mind."

The reporters then began digging in Shote's past. But after two hours of probing, they had to admit the White House had at last come up with a Southern candidate without a blemish on his record.

Or, as Shote truthfully put it, lifting himself up on one elbow, "Hell, boys, I ain't never done nothing at all."

An enterprising Life magazine reporter at this point whipped out a contract. "Read this, sir," he said eagerly. "Life will pay you $50,000, if you'll write your first-person account of how you became the perfect Southern nominee to the Supreme Court."

"Read?" said Shote, blinking slowly. "Write?"

The White House late today withdrew Shote's nomination and said the search for a qualified Southerner would continue.

A delegation of Southern leaders, headed by Senator Strom Thurmond, called on the President this evening and asked him to nominate a Northerner instead.

"Mr. Nixon's pig-headed determination to nominate a Southerner," angrily explained Senator Thurmond later, "is giving the South a bad name."

Letters To The Editors

Snowballing School Spirit

Dear Sirs:

Being a freshman here, my say might not count as much as if this letter would be coming from an upperclassman. After one semester of studying here, I have come to the honest conclusion that "something" is vitally wrong here.

To put it more bluntly, I have never seen the likes of it before. Why is it that here so much importance is stressed on the details instead of the major necessities?

I am very much disturbed (maybe this might seem a bit ridiculous in a week's time) about the aftermath of the snowball fight(s) held last Sunday evening. For me, it is the only social event that I have enjoyed on this campus.

Not because it contained violence or vandalism as the administration might attack, but because for once I felt a little of the "spirit" that everyone so raps about these days.

I admit, there were some in the crowd who were out to destroy; yet, as we have studied in many courses, this is not something new in mankind. Any organized or disorganized group will have the same amount of unbalance in it, and unfortunately things start too soon and too fast that the majority cannot stop them.

Not everyone in that group felt vicious, or mean, or went out of their heads. In general, I took this whole fiasco as a fun-filled activity (it was not posted on the social events calendar and turned

Quit The Wit

Dear Sirs:

I have become increasingly incensed by STUFF's brand of editorial censorship. I refer to the witty editors' notes which you add, depending on your own whims. They are intended to belittle the arguments of the writer. This must discourage letters which the writer knows disagrees with your opinions.

Letters to the editors should live or die on their own merits, not on offhand editorial comments. STUFF does not have to put up with college censorship or student comments, unless they arrive in responsible letters which are open to attack. Editors' notes are necessary, but editorial opinion belongs in editorials.

William Lessard (Ed. note—Thank you for calling our notes "witty." You'll notice that we try to improve the grammar of those who write letters to the editors, as well as belittle their arguments.)

Lucky Break

Dear Sirs:

I would like to use this forum to publicly thank that rather large unit of "strangers in the night" who were so kind as to throw snowballs and break my window last Sunday night.

They'll never realize how much good they did. Thanks to having to clean up the glass, I developed enough ambition to scrub and wax the floor. Our floor was in terrible shape; now it is beautiful.

My roommate and I were at odds with one another because of a few grubby habits of mine. Now that I've cleaned the floor, we've already started to get along better.

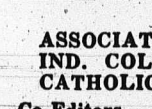

Peace, and I hope you don't get caught.

Thomas Brown, C.P.P.S.

Pumas To Storm DePauw In Title Drive

Puma Bob Seggerson blocks a shot by Valpo's Steve Niems (20) in heated action underneath the Crusader bucket last Saturday.

PUMA PRINTS

By ED ZGONC

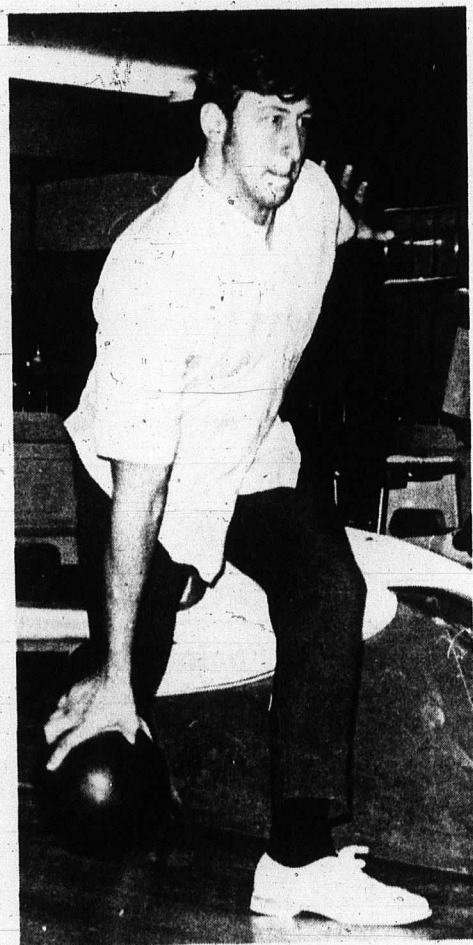

Despite last Saturday's loss at Valparaiso, SJC is still very much alive in the ICC title race with a 2-2 conference slate.

Besides tonight's tilt against faltering but powerful Evansville, Saint Joe must play conference leader DePauw in a crucial road game Feb. 14, before hosting Butler Feb. 21 and finishing the season Mar. 3 in a game that could settle the ICC battle, against Valparaiso.

To garner an NCAA post-season tourney bid, the Pumas must finish strong in the conference. Currently Saint Joe rests in third place, with a good chance of rapid improvement in the next three days.

In conference statistics released Feb. 9, Saint Joe is prominently represented in every category.

Bill Gladieux (23.5), Ted Hillary (21.0), and super-sub Bob Seggerson (13.8) are among the conference scoring leaders. Gladieux is fourth, Hillary sixth, and Seggerson thirteenth (lucky?).

NIEBUHR

Last semester Puma rollers compiled a 1-3 slate against the tough teams in the Midwest Intercollegiate Bowling Conference.

Bob Varvaro's high game of 214 sparked the Pumas to victory over Circle Campus. After Sunday's victory, team captain Ed Niebuhr expressed optimism for future matches. Rocky Clemens, last semester's leading average bowler, out the remainder of the semester with an arm injury, will be hard to replace, but expected to pick up the slack are Varvaro, Chester Woodworth, John Comella, Jim White, and Tom Bober.

Feb. 22 Saint Joe's bowling team travels to Illinois Institute of Technology for another conference clash.

IN SHAPE: Feb. 9 Puma baseballers awoke with the chickens at 6 a.m. and had their first workout in the gym. From now on the team will work out between 4:30 and 6:00 p.m. daily. Good luck!

Saint Joe's 1970 grid edition is currently preparing for the official opening of spring practice which begins on March 31. Beer sales are down in the city of Rensselaer.

After hosting Evansville tonight at Alumni Fieldhouse, the potent Pumas travel to hostile Greencastle this Saturday to battle DePauw.

Headed towards a possible NCAA post-season tourney bid, Saint Joe's can sustain their drive with a conquest of the Tigers, ICC leader with a 4-1 conference mark and a 12-6 record over-all.

The Saints labeled DePauw in the "Castle of Chaos" 87-75 on Jan. 31, but DePauw has since bested Valparaiso, 90-80, and Evansville, 104-89.

Forward Richard Tharp is the key man in the Tiger attack, currently second in the conference scoring race with a 27.8 average.

Center Larry Downs (6-6) and forward Larry Johnson round out the Tiger front line. Downs is the leading ICC rebounder with 14 retrieves per game, and the number ten scorer with an 18.4 average.

Diminutive Dale Barrett (6-0) tops DePauw's crew at guard with a 13.6 average, hitting .514 from the field. John Tolle and Bob Hughes have worked at the other backcourt spot.

A win by the Pumas will even the all-time series between SJC and DePauw at 17 wins apiece.

Saint Joe finishes its season with a five-game home stand, starting with Wabash on Feb. 17.

The Little Giants are a young ball club with but one senior on this year's squad.

Coach Russell Nichols is counting on his five sophomores to mature and bring a winning record to Crawfordsville.

Nichols lost only two starters from the 1968-69 unit that lost to SJC by 76-70, but they supplied 50 percent of their offense.

Tom Martella (6-6) and Lee Fouts (6-3) supply the muscle and clutch rebounding.

Team leader, Pete Volz, the only senior on the squad, is expected to raise last year's seven-point output per game.

One of the promising sophs, Ray Griffith (5-11), teams with Volz at the guard posts.

Wabash, trying to rebound from a 9-12 season, will try to avenge last year's net loss and this year's grid defeat by the Pumas.

Crusaders Edge SJC

Valpo forward John Sears' free throw after time had elapsed in last Saturday's ICC tilt dealt SJC a stunning 85-84 setback, leaving Saint Joe with a 12-5 season record and a 2-2 conference mark.

Saint Joe's hit an amazing 35 of 65 field goals (.538) while Valpo countered with a mediocre 30-for-72 showing (.417), but the Crusaders achieved the one-point victory margin at the foul line, converting 25 of 34 charity tosses. Saint Joseph's managed 14 of 27 free throws.

Valpo took a 48-41 halftime lead on the shooting of Bruce Lindner, who tallied a game-high 31 points. The Crusaders spurred to a 13-point advantage early in the second stanza. But SJC stormed back to capture momentary leads. The closing minutes were quite hectic with some erratic play.

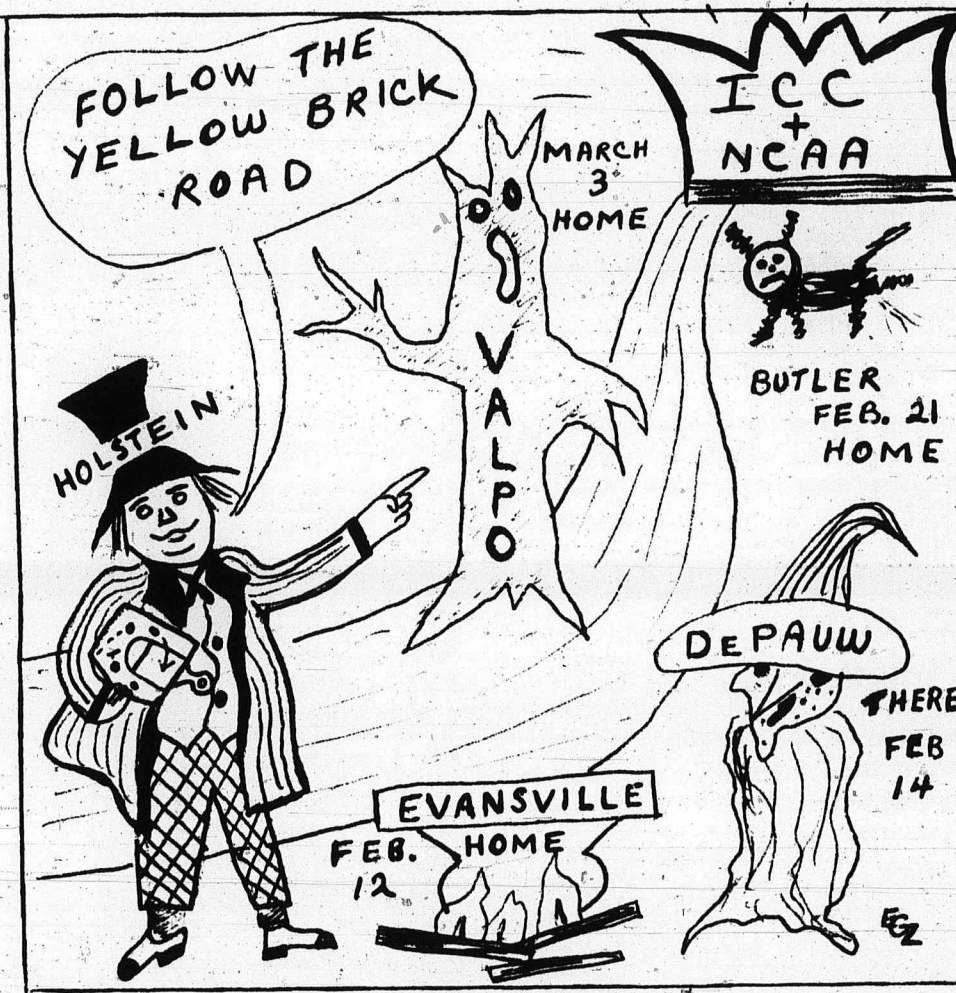

With nine nine seconds to play, Bill Gladieux converted a single free throw to knot the score at 84-84.

Valpo missed a 20-foot jumper from the left side, but officials whistled a foul on the Pumas under the Crusader basket that sent Sears to the line for the winning point.

Ted Hillary and Gladieux performed brilliantly, tallying 27 and 24 points respectively.

SJC won the rebound battle, 50-47, but fouls proved decisive in the game as Seggerson and Bill Weliky fouled out, while Hillary, Gladieux, George Brun and Morgan had four infractions each.

TRUMP THE ACES

Freshmen 3-3 After Loss To Valpo

Puma yearlings sport a 3-3 record, having dropped a 105-69 decision to the tall and talented Crusaders of Valparaiso last Saturday.

Saint Joe played excellent ball in the first half, and trailed by only six points at intermission, 43-37, but was stampeded in the second half by Valpo's 62-point outburst.

Mark Muterspaw led the Pumas with 18 points. The Pumas received balanced scoring support from Henry Davis and burly Rick Vonderhaar, both with 16 markers.

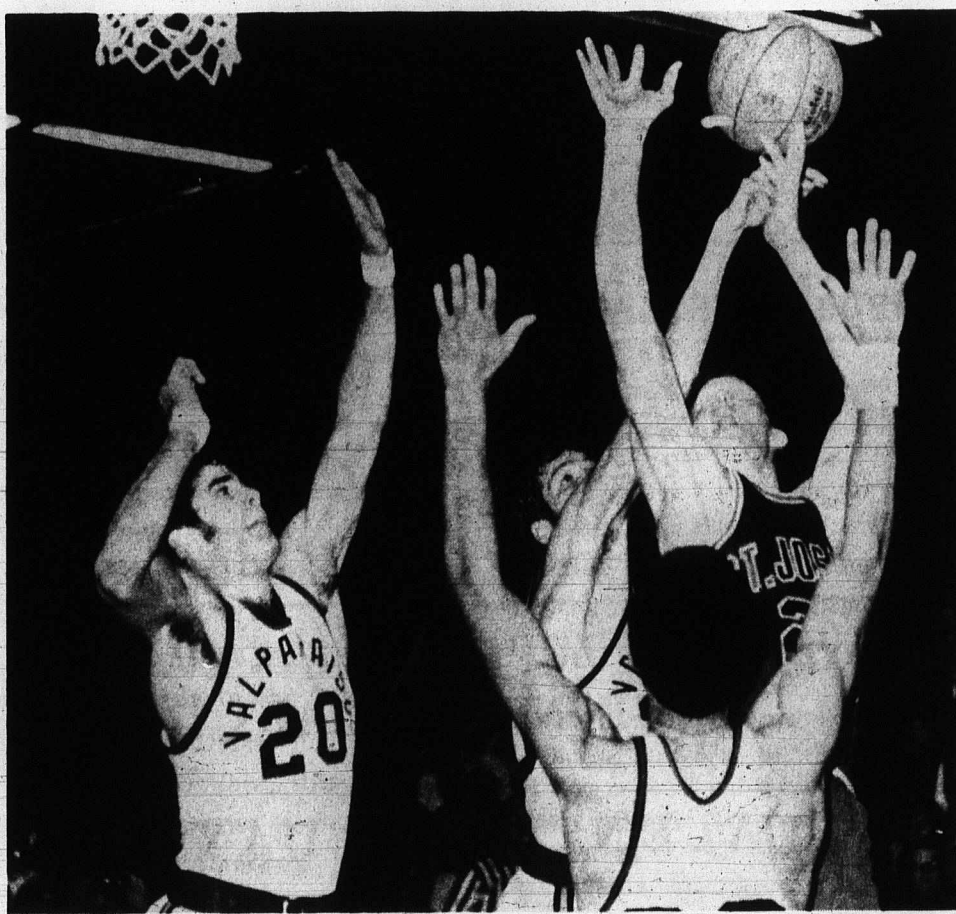

The Puma Cubs return to action Saturday when they visit Greencastle for a return bout with the DePauw yearlings, having thrashed the Tigers 74-69 earlier this semester.

Last semester, SJC frosh lost their first encounter to DePauw of Chicago 84-61. The freshmen split a pair of contests with two junior colleges, beating Kankakee Junior College before a home crowd, 81-67, and losing to Danville Junior College 84-77.

Before Christmas Saint Joe ripped Wabash, 99-88, to end first semester action.

In addition to Muterspaw, Davis, and Vonderhaar, Tom Brock, Duane Reynolds, Pete Mavrookas, and Sam Facen have been carrying the load thus far.

Two home dates remain on the Puma Cubs' schedule, Feb. 17 against Wabash, and Mar. 3 against Valparaiso. Sandwiched in between these two games is an interesting match against the Purdue freshmen squad at Lafayette.

Crusaders Steve Niems (20) and Harold Green (22) impede Ted Hillary's advance toward Saint Joe's basket in last Saturday's tilt. Hillary notched a phenomenal 13 out of 16 from the field, but the Pumas still dropped a squeaker, 85-84.

Pinochle, Pie-Eating Planned

Phi Kappa Theta, Scharf House, and the Young Republicans have scheduled two movies, a lecture, a pie-eating contest and a pinochle tournament for next week's activities in the "I" program. Bob Neville, Phi Kappa Theta social chairman, is coordinator for the week.

The movie African Queen will be shown Monday in the auditorium at 8 p.m.

The Phi Kaps are initiating a "score-o" at Tuesday night's basketball game against Wabash. At half-time, one male and one female student, chosen at random, will attempt a free throw shot. A five dollar prize will be awarded if at least one student is successful. If not, the prize will be increased by five dollars after each successive game until someone wins.

Following Tuesday night's game will be a marshmallow-wiener roast, behind Raleigh Hall.

During Wednesday evening's supper five students will compete in a pie-eating contest in both cafeterias. A prize of ten dollars will be awarded to the student in each cafeteria who has the fastest time for one pie, hands tied.

Tom Weakly, director of Phi Kappa Theta chapter services, will speak on "The Value of the Fraternity System on This Campus," at 7 p.m. Wednesday, in the HCCR.

The pinochle tournament will open Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the ballroom and will continue at 8 p.m. on both Thursday and Friday. The $50 prize will go to the team amassing the most points.

The movie High Noon will be shown Thursday at 10 p.m. in the auditorium. Friday evening a treasure hunt is scheduled, with $20 going to the winning team. Further details about this will be announced later.

out even to be fun, for a change), but to many it was compared to a rebellion.

I would like to express one final comment. I have never attended a Christian institution of learning before in my life. I came here with open arms to capture the kindness and understanding that the Christian religion is based on.

I have been let down in many ways, but mostly because of this: Most priests here act as true administrators, not as members of the highest representatives of the Christian belief. Maybe I have been watching too many priest-boy dramas of yesteryear. Why, I ask, do so many people lose their faith, and some of those including students at Saint Joseph's?

I do not sign this letter, not because I do not believe strongly in my convictions, but because it is hard to defend them even here, in a Catholic College. May God give me strength tomorrow.

Senate . . .

fied students originated in a motion by Steve Freeze (Jr.-Mer.).

The election of Scappaticci as Senate President fulfilled the provision of the newly-approved SA Constitution that a chairman of the Senate be elected from its own ranks. The SA President has traditionally presided over Senate meetings.

The Senate also discussed a request from the College Events Committee, chaired by Mrs. Harlan Noel, dean of women, for Senate recommendations concerning a "sheltered events" policy.

The Senate passed a motion by Carrico that only when a conflict over physical facilities arises should the office of student affairs give preference of one activity over another scheduled at the same time.
